

COLONEL OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED OF CHOICE

"CUT AND DRIED" PROCEEDINGS OF PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION FORMALLY REPORTED TO ROOSEVELT.

POSED FOR PICTURES

Nominees With Members of Committee Had Pictures Taken For Campaign Purposes—"Wolf" Added to Political Menagerie.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—If in the tumult and shouting yesterday at the national progressive convention Col. Theodore Roosevelt had any doubt that he was effectively nominated for the presidency he was reassured today when a committee of notification met him early today at his hotel. The colonel had been "informally" notified yesterday when he went to the convention and delivered his speech of acceptance the delegates who had been selected from the states and territories went as a formal committee of notification to carry out their part of the program today.

Mr. Roosevelt was the center of a lively group in the center of the hotel lobby, when the committee arrived. He with Governor Hiram Johnson of California, the nominee for vice presidency and A. J. Beveridge, progressive candidate for governor of Indiana, and permanent chairman of the convention had just come from a photograph gallery where they had pictures taken to be used in the campaign. In one picture the presidential nominee posed with a group of cowboys. While in the lobby of the hotel Col. Roosevelt espied an old friend in the crowd and he added to his political menagerie by designating his friends a "big wolf." Come here you big wolf," the colonel added as he grasped his friend Albert Bacon of Wisconsin by the land. Col. Roosevelt and Governor Johnson were then escorted to the Florentine room where members of the notification committee filed in and shook hands. The ceremony was soon over and the nominees gathered with the members of the national committee which had assembled to complete its organization and make campaign plans. The progressives launched into their active campaign plans with a vim. Some of the state delegations to the convention did not wait until they had returned to their homes to begin the work of organization to their states. "The Wisconsin and other delegates met immediately after adjournment of the convention and selected a state chairman and state secretary and state executive committee. In several cases leaders telegraphed orders before departing from Chicago for the beginning of active campaign work.

Campaign Plans. The national committee discussed and probably will adopt a plan of campaign with four vice-chairmen each to be in charge of a separate section of the country. The four headquarters probably will be New York, San Francisco, Chicago and New Orleans. At a special conference attended by George Perkins of New York, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, chairman of the progressive national committee, and former Senator Beveridge the four sectional campaign plan was originated and submitted to the full committee. Mr. Perkins, it is reported, will be chosen chairman of the campaign executive committee, with permanent headquarters in New York. Senator Dixon will be made managing director of the campaign and circulate literature throughout the country.

"Bull Moose" Leaves Chicago. Theodore Roosevelt left on the Twentieth Century Limited at 2:30 p. m., accompanied by his wife, Lyman Abbott, Jr., and George Roosevelt, a cousin. A crowd was gathered and greeted the colonel with wireless time service for the jewelers. The plan is that every jeweler shall have a receiver to catch the time flashed from the new government wireless station at Arlington. More accurate setting and regulation of watches than now is common would follow, it was said.

EXPLAINS OMISSION OF CERTAIN PLANKS

Wilson Says Planks of Platform Were Left Out of His Speech to be Used Later in the Campaign.

New York, Aug. 8.—"I want to save ammunition for the campaign," explained Governor Woodrow Wilson today when he was asked about the omission from his speech of acceptance yesterday of several planks of the democratic platform adopted at Baltimore.

"I merely took the heart of the platform," said the governor, "and what seemed to me to be the heart of the situation throughout the country. I will discuss later individual topics in particular localities where they are most interesting to the people."

The governor informed the correspondents he would discuss in detail in future speeches many of the issues not treated in yesterday's speech. The governor intimated he would have a good deal to say about the navy, but did not wish to interfere in the present "battleship tangle" as he phrased it in the house.

"The governor's reason for ignoring the single plank of the platform is known to close friends. It is highly probable the governor will go through the campaign without uttering a single word on the subject."

Though acquiescing fully on the platform and all its planks the governor it is said does not feel it would be dignified for him to discuss the single plank because of the possible personal application of its meaning.

PEA CANNERS SERIOUSLY AFFECTED BY NEW LAW

Madison, Wis., Aug. 8.—Investigations into the pea canning industry in this state being prosecuted by Prof. John R. Commons of the state industrial commission in conjunction with the federal department of labor, show that with three possible exceptions the sixty-one canneries in Wisconsin are in position to care for their crop under ordinary conditions without violating the labor law. Nearly 30,500 acres of peas will be harvested in the state this year under favorable labor conditions.

The inquiry has shown that the peas, although planted over a four week period, might ripen within three days under certain weather conditions. The result is that laborers, most of whom are women and girls, are compelled to spend long hours in the canneries or else about three-fourths of the crop will be lost. The new child labor law forbids work by girls more than ten hours in the day, time or eight hours at night, and the boys were face to face with a huge monetary loss unless something were done to relieve the labor situation.

The industrial commission told the canners it was powerless to grant relief, and that nothing could be done in that respect until the next legislature meets, when amendments will be proposed to remove the handicap on the industry.

In an ordinary season each factory can care for from 200 to 300 acres of peas. In three cases discovered, over 300 acres had been planted and the factories were in no position to handle the crop without working all the laborers for long hours daily. A large number of young people are employed in the industry.

Prof. Commons' report will not be completed before Jan. 1.

OVER SIX HUNDRED MINERS IMPRISONED BY BIG EXPLOSION

Rescue Parties Seek to Reach 642 Men Trapped in German Coal Mine This Morning.

Bochum, Germany, Aug. 8.—Six hundred and fifty miners were imprisoned today in the Lorraine pit of the coal field of which the center is the village of Gerthe, about four miles from this city. The day shift had just descended into the workings and was moving along the various levels, when a serious fire damp explosion occurred.

The detonation was heard at the surface and the officials on duty immediately formed rescue parties of the men belonging to the night shift.

Eight seriously injured miners were brought to the surface, the fate of the other 642 is not known.

At a late hour this evening it was feared that more than 100 had been killed. 23 bodies had been recovered and the rescue parties were unable to enter the gallery in which the fire damp explosion occurred where it was believed from 50 to 100 men are still entombed and had almost certainly perished.

A large number of those rescued were suffering from severe injuries and it was expected many of them could not recover.

The rescue detachments which did such good work at the time of the French mine disaster at Courrier near Lens, on March 10, 1906, when 1,230 miners were killed, arrived here early this afternoon, but were unable to penetrate to the galleries owing to the flames and the poisonous gases.

Wives and families of the doomed miners were gathered around the pit all day but were unable to learn any details.

At 6 six more bodies had been recovered making the total known deaths at that hour 40.

"HARD TO SELL" PROPERTY

With all real estate dealers here is always a class of property that is listed without much thought of a sale. It's hard to sell; for some reason it's not desirable and buyers can't see it favorable.

This is the class of property with which to test the drawing power of the want ad service. All these generally undesirable features make this the ideal location for some one, and it's in hunting out the one certain prospect that makes the "Want ad" valuable.

Madison, Aug. 8.—Albert Greene, and Edward King, two youths living near Randolph, Columbia county, were fined $25 and costs each in federal court today for destroying half a dozen small rural delivery boxes. They were indicted by the recent federal grand jury at Superior. The evidence showed the act was done more out of mischief than with malicious intent. Olie Erickson, a Madison chauffeur, has been indicted for obstructing a rural mail carrier, Roy C. Shetter of Sloughton, for refusing to give him room on a narrow road and compelling the carrier to drive into a ditch filled with water. Erickson was held for trial at La Crosse, October 10.

BLACKMAIL STORIES INVOLVE INSPECTORS

Gamblers Give Evidence Before Grand Jury Probing Rosenthal Death Implicating Higher Officials.

New York, Aug. 8.—Cumulative evidence piling up before the grand jury investigating police blackmail is said today to involve four or five high police officials and that indictments soon will be drawn.

Witnesses examined by District Attorney Whitman have furnished much corroboration to the confession of "Jack" Rose, who gave a list of gamblers upon whom, he charged Police Lieut. Becker levied blackmail.

Several gamblers were before the public prosecutor and unwillingly admitted they have paid blackmail to certain inspectors.

One of the witnesses told Mr. Whitman he had been threatened with death if he went before the grand jury and gave information about the police.

These witnesses said that these inspectors dealt directly with the big gambling houses leaving Lieut. Becker to attend to the smaller places.

"Bridge" Weber now admits that he also collected toll from certain up town gambling houses for a police inspector.

Weber's life has been threatened and District Attorney Whitman has provided him with a special guard.

Rose has sent word to the public prosecutor that he is prepared to identify the four murderers of Herman Rosenthal.

Until now Rose was not ready to say that he could positively identify the gun men.

By far the most interesting in the many sided investigations into the murder of the gambler, Hermann Rosenthal, and is surrounding "muck" of police graft, is the news of John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s, quiet compliment inquiry into conditions in the underworld, particularly as to the so called white slave traffic.

While Mr. Rockefeller and his agents declined to discuss the matter, and District Attorney Whitman will furnish no details, it generally is credited that through the establishment of what purported to be a disorderly house in the Tenderloin, agents for Mr. Rockefeller have gathered a great deal of valuable material.

It was gathered primarily for reports to congress and he legislature as a basis for corrective legislation dealing with the traffic in girls, but coincidentally it dovetailed with the present inquiry into the Rosenthal case in that, it is said, evidence was obtained that a police inspector was getting $600 a month from such resorts for protection.

This data will be at Mr. Whitman's disposal to use along with the confession of "Baldie" Jack" Rose and others. It is thought probable the district attorney and Mr. Rockefeller will hold conference some time this week.

"I know nothing of the details of this matter," said Mr. Whitman today. "It is true that Mr. Rockefeller is of great service to the community and the white slave investigation. No man has done more to hold up many hands in the particularly difficult business of finding out who are the guilty persons in certain times of criminality."

The evidence in question was collected by Clifford Rose, a detective who was prominent in the Chicago vice crusade in cooperation with assistant district attorney James Bronson Reynolds.

Police Commissioner Waldo seemed pleased with the news that John D. Rockefeller, Jr. had been endeavoring to secure evidence of police graft. The commissioner said, "I hope Mrs. Rockefeller has been successful in obtaining evidence which will enable the department to dismiss any rascal who may be guilty of wrong doing."

Detective W. J. Burns admitted today that his men had been taking part in the graft prosecution investigation. Agents of his, he said, had been working to procure a conviction that "protection money" was being collected from keepers of disorderly houses and gambling establishments, while others of his agents had obtained positions as waiters in the Hotel Metropole in front of which Rose, that met death.

HASTEN TO SETTLE PANAMA CANAL BILL

SENATOR JOHNSON WOULD HAVE NO RECESS UNTIL QUESTION IS FINALLY SETTLED.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Senator Johnson today unsuccessfully attempted to make the senate sit continuously until the Panama canal bill is finished and to limit speakers to five minutes each. He declared the senate should be compelled to act on canal legislation rather than talk.

Senator Friston objected to such an agreement "at least until the section regulating railroad owned ships had been reached. It was believed when the bill was taken up today that it might be complete and finally voted upon before adjournment tonight.

Trouble Brewing.

Senator Williams offered an amendment to permit foreign built ships owned wholly by Americans to participate in the privileges of coast ships. It provoked an acrimonious passage with Senator Martin who opposed it at length and who was in turn accused by Senator Williams of making a protectionist speech in favor of the Virginia ship laws.

Is Defeated.

The William free ship amendment was defeated 38 to 10. Senator Williams then offered another to admit to American registry any American owned ships of foreign make which were engaged exclusively in foreign trade.

May Aid Lorimer.

An allowance of $35,000 or $40,000 may be made by the senate to help William Lorimer defray the expenses of his three years' fight to retain his seat. Mr. Lorimer has turned in bills amounting to $100,000 or $125,000.

Estimate Made.

They have been referred to the investigating committee which will make a statement to the senate probably tomorrow that certain items amounting from $35,000 to $40,000 would be a fair allowance if any be made.

No Compromise.

The house conference on the sugar tariff bill, led by Representative Underwood, have served notice on the senate conference that they will under no circumstances accept the Bristol-Lodge sugar bill, passed two weeks ago by the senate.

Not Democratic.

"This measure is not a democratic bill," said Representative Underwood today, "and does not meet the ideas of the house as to what a genuine revision of the sugar bill should be."

It became apparent today that there was little chance of an agreement upon a compromise sugar measure.

Deficiency Bill.

The general deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $5,183,838, was passed by the house today. The bill contains one item of $150,000 for the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the battle of Gettysburg, next July, coupled with the provision that the state of Pennsylvania appropriate at least an equal amount.

Oldfield Bill.

The Oldfield bill to revise the patent laws to meet the recent patent monopoly decision of the supreme court, was reported to the house today by Chairman Oldfield of the patent committee.

Makes Provision.

The bill seeks to set aside the decision which insured the right of an inventor to appropriate the kind of materials used or sold in connection with a patented device. It seeks to cure alleged evils arising from the vendor of a patented article fixing the price at which the article may be resold.

FAVOR REGULATION OF PUBLIC DANCES

Police Chiefs at Milwaukee Adopt Resolution Against Unregulated Dance Halls.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 8.—The death knell of unregulated dance halls in Wisconsin was sounded in the convention of the Wisconsin association of Chiefs of Police today when the convention went on record as follows:

"Resolved that the chiefs of police of Wisconsin in convention assembled favor strict regulation of all public dance halls to the end that the evil and demoralizing influence resulting therefrom may be minimized if not entirely suppressed."

The following officers were elected: President August Schneck, Sheboygan, vice-president, Thomas Malone, Wausau; secretary-treasurer, Donald McKay, Waukesha. Neenah was chosen as the next meeting place.

The legislative committee was empowered to draft a bill, which gives greater power to fire and police commissions in the larger cities and placing the fire and police departments of the smaller ones under commissions instead of common councils and town boards and which will be presented to the next legislature.

MONDELL TO FIGHT FOR TAFT IN WEST

Representative Frank Mondell.

The minute congress adjourns Representative Frank Mondell, of Wyoming, will pack up his trunk and hike for the far west, where he will immediately jump into the thick of the political fray. Mondell is a strong Taft man and is ready to risk his own political life in a fight for the president.

Picking the Good Ones.

"You see a group of girl children, or schoolgirls, or university girls, or factory girls, or ballroom girls—you can pick out, as plainly as if they were branded, the ones whom men will want to marry and the ones whom no man will want to marry."—"A Touch of Fantasy," by A. H. Adams.

Cheerful Philosopher.

Fontenelle, the French writer, was always cheerful, and this is perhaps why he lived to be one hundred years old. He used to say: "Without cheerfulness, what is philosophy worth?" When about to die, he said: "I do not suffer, my friend; I only feel a certain difficulty in living."

Generally fair weather continues west of the Rockies in connection with the high pressure area in that section. This area of high barometer has caused cool weather over the Rocky mountain states and Canada, the lowest temperature reported being 38 degrees above zero at Yellowstone Park. ## COUNTY GETS SHARE OF AUTO LICENSES

County Highway Repair Fund Augmented by $3,126—Draft for Amount Received Today.

Rock county's share of the automobile and motorcycle license fees, according to the terms of the law passed at the last session of the legislature is $3,126.84, and a draft for that amount was received by the county treasurer today. This money, the law says, shall be added to the highway repair fund of the county, and shall be spent in such manner as the county board shall determine on roads outside of the limits of incorporated cities and villages.

After the cost of collecting the fees and otherwise administering the law has been deducted, the county is given three-fourths of the fees which are paid by persons residing in the county who took out licenses. The other one-fourth goes into the state highway fund.

It is evident from the amount received by the treasurer that there are between 700 and 800 licensed motor vehicles in Rock county. The amount which will annually be contributed to the repair fund will not tend to decrease from year to year. This is the first year that the law has been in operation. Payment is made to the various counties as soon as possible after the close of the fiscal year.

The county treasurer also received a draft for $100.40 as the state's share for building a bridge in the town of Lima under the highway aid law. This is the first bridge money which the county has received from the state.

Visit the Chiropractor As Often As You Would Your Dentist

There is another feature of Chiropractic fully as interesting as any that has been mentioned. This is its hygienic or prophylactic influence. The real mission of the physician is to prevent rather than cure disease. This being the case, the inference that if one's spine were always kept in proper relation and alignment by expert Chiropractic adjustments, all illness would be prevented, is both logical and reasonable. As by paying regular visits to your dentist, your teeth are kept in good condition, by having all decay promptly treated, so by availing one's self of the services of a competent Chiropractor, at stated intervals, and especially after any falls or injuries which might implicate the spine, not only would much pain and suffering be avoided, but much loss of both time and money would be saved. Here's just one testimonial to the efficiency of our methods. This woman suffered from a subluxation as shown in the illustration herewith.

SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS JANESVILLE, WIS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Have been a sufferer with asthma for the past twenty years. After taking six adjustments from the local Chiropractor, I haven't been troubled with an attack since.

Along with the asthma I had toricollis or wry neck. It gives me great pleasure to say to the sick and suffering of Rock County that after the aforesaid number of adjustments, I'm a well woman.

(Original and signature of this letter on file at our office.)

"Chiropractic adjustments make much of the work of the dentist unnecessary, as they effectually remove the cause of many diseases of the gums while the work of the dentist only removes the effects of these maladies, leaving the cause as active and aggressive as before.

Nose Bleed.
Nose bleeding is a symptom and while not in itself alarming should be watched if frequently recurrent. Severe cases often amount to hemorrhage and a doctor should be seen. Plugging the nostrils is often necessary and a recumbent position. For ordinary nose bleed try a rapid chewing motion of the jaws, also soaking hands and feet in very hot water.

The Children of Mexico.
The Mexican children are delightfully interesting. Courtesy with them seems to be ingrained. As soon as they can talk they become Chesterfields, while their innate kindness prompts them to many a delicate attention.

Canada's Small Man.
Canada has lost one title to fame—its smallest man, and one of the smallest in the world. Edward Hupman, thirty-eight years old, died recently at his home in a Nova Scotia village. His height was two feet nine inches and he weighed 30 pounds.

GOOD OLD MAN IS SLOWING UP NOW

Outfielder Gessler.

Gessler, of Washington, who showed mighty good form in the outfield last season, is slowing up this year. He batted .282 last season.

Jake Stahl is finding it easier to manage the Red Sox with the American league pennant in sight. Patsy Donovan had a hard time with these youngsters last season. "If one fellow broke training rules now, there would be six to beat him up for it," said one of the veterans. "I don't believe any rules will be broken now. Everybody wants to win and nobody wants a licking." Popper Bill Carrigan, the veteran catcher, and Charley Wagner, equally ancient shortstop, are given credit in inner circles for the Stahls' great sport.

Kraft, trained by Cleveland two years ago as pitcher, is now an outfielder and such a hard hitter that he will be tried out in the garden.

Luther McCarty, the youthful giant who surprised the world by tumbling Carl Morris to the floor, is not the fortunate child of a lucky punch, but seems to be the embodiment of all that goes to make the ring champion, the possessor of speed, hitting ability, and aptitude for learning the fine points and one of the gamest men who ever laced on a glove.

Pittsburgh has grand circuit racing for the first time in a score of years. The cream of the country's best horses has been attracted. The new track is on Brunot's island, a 150-acre lot in the Ohio river.

DELAHANTY MARKED FOR SLAUGHTER

Jim Delahanty, DELAHANTY MARKED FOR SLAUGHTER?

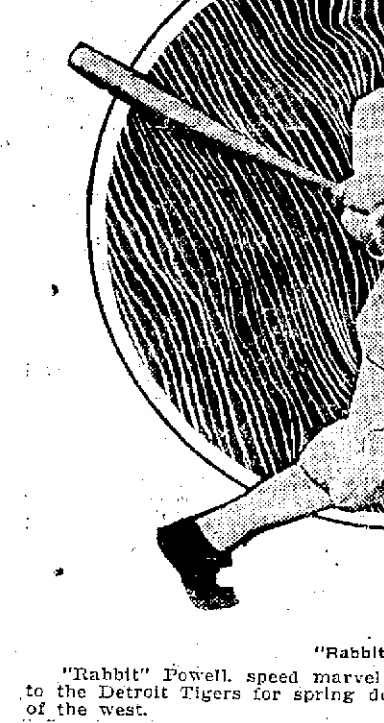

Ever since the Detroit Tigers strike last May, which followed Ty Cobb's suspension for punching a New York fan, Jim Delahanty, Tiger second baseman, has been spending the most of his time warming the Detroit bench. Fans have wondered why Delahanty, who has a batting average of .387, and is a mighty clever baseman, isn't being used more. The explanation seems to be that Del is believed to have led the strike which followed Ban Johnson's refusal to reinstate Cobb at once upon demand of Ty's teammates. It is said all clubs in the leagues have waived on Delahanty, which makes it appear that he is marked to go.

TORK WILL VISIT EX-ACTRESS SOON

Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn.

It is reported from England that the former American actress, Edna May, now Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, is about to become a mother. Edna May was for some years a great favorite on the stage in the United States and she has been greatly missed. She is one of the few actresses who have renounced the stage utterly. During her recent visit to America she asserted that her home and her husband fill her life and she has no desire for the profession.

Strobino on arrival home.

The first squad of "Our Boys" who represented the United States in the Olympic games at Stockholm have arrived home. They are all in good condition and all are happy. A big crowd lined the pier and street to welcome the returning athletes. But the largest delegation came from Patterson, N. J., to greet their fellow townsman, Gaston Strobino, who finished third in the classic marathon. As Strobino passed the customs officials, the first ones to welcome him were his father, mother, and sister, who almost smothered him with hugs and kisses. Then he greeted his friends, who cheered him wildly.

MURPHY'S LOSS FELT BY ATHLETICS; WON'T PLAY MUCH MORE THIS SEASON

Danny Murphy

The loss of Danny Murphy, who is out of the game with water on the knee, is keenly felt by the Philadelphia Athletics. Murphy has been one of Connie Mack's most dependable men. He could always be counted upon in a crisis, and he was especially good at the bat when his were needed. He will probably be out of the game the most of the season.

Enthusiasm for President Taft in Wisconsin is on the increase. When the Chicago convention placed him in nomination there was much talk of a decided split in party lines, but as the days pass, as the voters stand and carefully weigh what the republican party has done what it will do if continued in power, and the possibilities of the vague promises of democracy, sentiment in favor of the re-election of Taft continues to grow. It is said to predict that President Taft will carry Wisconsin by the usual republican majority and take along into office the whole republican state ticket.

Apparently there is no good reason why certain retail liquor men should enjoy immunity from the closing ordinance, but some apparently think so, and one is even alleged to have made the statement that he would keep open Sunday if he wanted to, and what is more, he has. It should be either the policy of closing all or permitting them all to remain open. It is not fair treatment to the rest who obey the law to the letter and desire a square deal.

Janesville can now boast of two bands which bid fair to put the city on the musical map of the state. The Bower City band is too well known to need any further praise and the newly organized Moose band is fast coming to the front. The next thing is to have weekly concerts in the park or some convenient place for the benefit of the public.

In view of his colossal blundering in the Becker case, Mayor Gaynor of New York probably feels like hiring a small boy to take him into the alley and kick him. But if he had been nominated for President at Baltimore, Jack Johnson wouldn't have been equal to the requirements of the case.

Something should be done to put Washington street in good repair before it is too late in the season to do so. It is a disgrace to the city that this road, the last that our dear departed ones must travel, should be in the condition it is.

Now that the children of the Third ward have started the fund for the playground fund, why not push the good work along and help the cause by combined effort to make their dreams a possibility.

"Find Well-Dressed Girl; Mind Blank," says the headline in a Chicago paper. It's easy to find well-dressed men anywhere whose minds are so near a blank that the difference isn't worth mentioning.

Wouldn't it be better for the Congressmen to adjourn and do their stump-speaking in their own districts where it stands a chance of receiving some attention?

Danger to Aviators.
It is difficult to determine the cause of most airplane accidents, but during the investigation which followed the fatal accident to Lieutenant Seville recently in France an important discovery is said to have been made by eye-witnesses. This was that the wing of his Bleriot broke downward instead of upward, indicating that there was an extreme downward pressure as the operator started to volplane. Experiments lately made in France are said to have confirmed this, and it is now believed to be necessary to guy the wings as substantially above as below.

A Little Mound.
By the side of a little sandy mound stands a man, old, stooped-shouldered and with snowy locks. No sound disturbs the evening's quietness save the cooing of a mourning dove. But suddenly a flat clenched and the aforementioned man is heard to exclaim: "Confound that wood-chuck!"

Learning the Lesson.
Owned the Titanic, is about to build another great ship of nearly the same size and character. The new boat will be equally magnificent and capacious. It will have all of the attractions for lovers of luxury which the lost steamer provided. But what is more to the point, it will also be safer.

The lesson of the great disaster has not been lost. The investigations by two great national governments have not been in vain. The new vessel will have a double "skin" from the keel up to a point well above the water line. There will be two steel walls between the interior of the great steamship and the sea instead of one as in the Titanic.

Also, there will be plenty of life boats. It will be possible for every one on board the vast floating hotel to find a place in a small boat if the need should arise. No doubt there will be careful drilling of the crew in manning and lowering the boats.

And when the officer in charge of the giant ship is notified that ice fields are near he will not go ahead full speed, with only an ordinary lookout. Experience teaches at the terrible cost sometimes, but the lessons written in blood and anguish are not wholly forgotten. The world moves on and up, guided by its own mistakes.

The next thing is to have weekly concerts in the park or some convenient place for the benefit of the public.

In view of his colossal blundering in the Becker case, Mayor Gaynor of New York probably feels like hiring a small boy to take him into the alley and kick him. But if he had been nominated for President at Baltimore, Jack Johnson wouldn't have been equal to the requirements of the case.

Something should be done to put Washington street in good repair before it is too late in the season to do so. It is a disgrace to the city that this road, the last that our dear departed ones must travel, should be in the condition it is.

Now that the children of the Third ward have started the fund for the playground fund, why not push the good work along and help the cause by combined effort to make their dreams a possibility.

"Find Well-Dressed Girl; Mind Blank," says the headline in a Chicago paper. It's easy to find well-dressed men anywhere whose minds are so near a blank that the difference isn't worth mentioning.

Wouldn't it be better for the Congressmen to adjourn and do their stump-speaking in their own districts where it stands a chance of receiving some attention?

Danger to Aviators.
It is difficult to determine the cause of most airplane accidents, but during the investigation which followed the fatal accident to Lieutenant Seville recently in France an important discovery is said to have been made by eye-witnesses. This was that the wing of his Bleriot broke downward instead of upward, indicating that there was an extreme downward pressure as the operator started to volplane. Experiments lately made in France are said to have confirmed this, and it is now believed to be necessary to guy the wings as substantially above as below.

A Little Mound.
By the side of a little sandy mound stands a man, old, stooped-shouldered and with snowy locks. No sound disturbs the evening's quietness save the cooing of a mourning dove. But suddenly a flat clenched and the aforementioned man is heard to exclaim: "Confound that wood-chuck!"

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

In the future. "I'm going out this evening, Reginald."

"Oh is that so, M'lord? I guess I'll go with you."

"Not on your zinc etching. I'm going to meet an old college friend. You stay at home with the kid, see?"

"Tain't fair, Maggie, to leave me home alone every night. Last time you went out to meet a college friend you didn't get in until 2 o'clock and lost $47. Mr. Jones told me his wife told him you did and she was there."

"You mean make me sick. You're always hollering. All you have got to do is to sit around and have a good time all day and go to your clubs while we poor women slave down town from morning until night. Besides you have no business with that Mr. Jones. He's a regular cat and he has spread gossip around this neighborhood for years. You stay at home, like a good little man and maybe I'll buy you a new hat."

"All right, Maggie, you can go out this time. But the next time you leave me at home alone until 2 o'clock in the morning I'm going back to my father, so there. A man is not a slave. He wants to do something besides take care of children day and night. You treat me like a dog, Mr. Jones' wife bought him three new suits last year and I ain't got a thing to wear."

"Well, so long, I must hurry or I'll be late. Now, don't weep."

"Ain't you going to kiss me good-bye, Maggie?"

"Oh, I suppose so—There now don't sit up for me."

Dear Sir—We don't know what to name the baby and we have decided to appeal to you, hoping for some advice in your daily column of Mental, Moral and Higher Ideals. Please favor us with some suggestions. Mrs. L. P. W.

Certainly, madam. If it is a boy name him Clarence, Percy, Roy, Pearl, Cecil, Ayrwyn, Cyril, Guy or Wilfred. If it is a girl name her, Fanny, Violet, Puss, Birdie, Duckie, Tootsie or Dove. Then when the baby grows up to be a 200-pounder she'll have a name to suit her.

name will just suit it. A great many parents make the mistake of selecting sensible names. This should not be done under any conditions.

The Greek Classic names are very nice. For a girl there is Iodine, Belladonna, Menlo, Vasoline, Aspirin, Sodolite, Arnica, Vermifuge, Hydrophobia, Tragicant, Salmagundi, Listerine, Antipathetic, Ahabistic, Scarlatina or Linocum. The Greek classic names contain some very good substantial names for men, including Erysipelas, Pneumonia, Lumbago, Appendicitis, Quinzy, Bronchitis, Paralysis, Parasis, Eczema, Apollinaris or Calomel.

But it really doesn't matter what you name the baby, both you and the baby will wish that you had named it something different.

What Would You Do?
"What would you do if you had a million dollars?"

"This question is so old that it almost belongs to the genus chestnut but it is interesting all the same. Personally, if we had a million dollars we would buy a new corned pipe and try to get two days off and go to a resort hotel. We might change our minds, however, and spend the whole amount by riding in a taxi for an entire evening. Tastes differ widely, as the following expressions from some of our faithful contributors will show."

"If I had a million dollars I would go down in the basement, take an axe and smash the eternal daylight out of the gas meter and let out all of the gas in our ward if it cost me every cent I had."

"I'd try and get away from the office one afternoon so I could see a ball game."

"If I had a million I'd buy a military store and present it to my wife, and then go back to my old job in the plaster mine."

"I'd take my million and sit down to an old-fashioned meal of ham and eggs and read out, and then I wouldn't care if I went to the poor house the next minute."

"I'd take a musical show out on the road, even if I couldn't keep going more than two weeks."

"I'd hunt up J. P. Morgan and make a bet at him just once."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WIFE'S URGING WINS; THAT'S WHY ATLANTA MAN IS RUNNING FOR GOVERNOR

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Slaton.

If John M. Slaton, of Atlanta, is the next governor of Georgia—and it now looks as if he will be—his wife will be responsible for it. Mr. Slaton acknowledges that it was only through her plea that he consented to enter the race.

Mrs. Slaton admits that she is the one who got him into the race. "Mr. Slaton is giving up a law practice that he cares for very much," says

Mrs. Slaton, "and I'm vain enough of his success in the law to tell that it does mean the financial sacrifice of several times the salary of Georgia's governor. But I'm vain enough to feel that he'll make a pretty good executive; and of course if he's governor, then I'll be the governor's wife, and I'll have my chance to put into execution some of my ideas concerning the operation of an executive mansion."

Soudanese Almost Exterminated.
The general opinion of the Egyptian fellahs is not a flattering one. We have generally looked upon him as a beast of burden whose only idea of retaliation for the blows showered upon him is to find some one even more abject than himself and repeat the castigation with interest. But Lord Kitchener in his first report has a good word to say for the fellah. He speaks of him as "one of the best and most hard-worked types of humanity," so we will willingly revise our estimate and stand corrected. Incidentally Lord Kitchener tells us that the population of the Soudan was about nine millions before the Mahdist rebellion, that after the rebellion it was reduced to two millions, and that it is now over three millions. The trifling reduction of seven millions of people was due to war and starvation. That is to say, they were killed.

Truly a Neat Reply.
Owen Johnson says that the best example of repartee he has ever heard came from a New Haven book agent, who still, as in Johnson's day at Yale, is called "John Drew" by the students, because of his society manner. Johnson was a freshman then, living at Pierson hall. The book dealer knocked, entered, looked suavely about, and remarked, "Ah, I see some new faces this year." A would-be wit of Johnson's class responded, "Why, yes, we change them every year." Instantly the book agent replied, still more suavely, "Ah! I trust that you will get a better face next year, young sir!"

A good woman's husband was dismembered and eaten by an African tribe. She, desirous of giving him Christian burial, was left no other alternative but that of exterminating, with the assistance of certain accommodating friends armed with the destructive weapons of our advanced civilization, the tribe in question, which had shown such a receptive attitude toward her husband. The bodies of savages were brought back to civilization by the avenging expedition and were placed in the grave, surmounted by a modest slab placed there by the widow and bearing the following inscription: "The remains of the Rev. —, beloved husband of —."

It promises to be a hot race meeting with plenty of excitement and again putting Janesville on the map of the racing world. ## WEST SEEKS RELIEF

FOR TWINE SHORTAGE

Agents Visit East To Secure Surplus in Retailer's Hands—Carload Shipped From Janesville.

Serious shortage of twine is being experienced in the west and north-west and agents have been sent to several points in the middle-west to buy up all the surplus stock in the hands of retailers. Orders have been received by dealers in this city and one is known to have shipped a carload. The shortage is the result of the general bumper crop and the failure of the dealers to lay in more than a normal supply. The price of twine has risen throughout the country and in some parts of Minnesota as much as 18½ cents a pound is being paid. Twine mills are reported to be running twenty-four hours a day with three shifts of workmen in order to catch up with the demand.

Janesville twine dealers do not anticipate that any shortage of twine will develop in this section. The harvest of small grain is well under way and most of the farmers have laid in a full supply. The demand here, too, has been exceptional, and for the same reason as that in the west. If a shortage should occur, it will not materialize before the corn harvest. A similar shortage of twine occurred about eight years ago and twine rose from 6 and 8 cents a pound to 16 and 18 cents.

Generally optimistic reports are being received from the harvest fields of Rock county. Oats is an extra heavy crop. Barley is an average good crop, but not quite equal in quality to that of last year. Corn promises well, and some fields are exceptional. In others the grub worm has done considerable damage. All small grain is well filled out and heavy. Tobacco is doing nicely and has not suffered any damage. Pastures have been good most all summer because of the abundance of rain, but the acreage is less than formerly because of seedlings dying out. This spring's seeding of clover is a fine stand.

The visitors began arriving about 10 o'clock over the inter-urban railway. Each was given one number on the program which was as follows:

MRS. BECK SURPRISED ON NINETY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY

Friends and Neighbors Entertained in Her Honor at Daughter's Home Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Beck was surprised by a company of friends and neighbors at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Eickstedt, on South Franklin street, the occasion being her ninety-fourth birthday. Mrs. Beck is enjoying good health in spite of her advanced years and assists not a little with the household duties. She still is able to read without the use of glasses. She was remembered by many gifts, including several beautiful sprays of flowers. Luncheon was served the guests at five o'clock. Those present were: Mesdames Ferdinand Schwankey, C. Peterson, William Strandel, Will Miller, Matilda Schlotfeldt, Mrs. Chaplin, Mrs. Benwitz, Mrs. Paulmann, Mrs. Selgren and Mrs. Kelley of Whitewater.

BOAT HOUSE IS ROBBED

Thieves Supposed To Have Entered Boat House of Russell Joerg Monday Night—Tools Not Marked.

Thieves broke into the boat house of Russell Joerg on Monday evening and carried away with them a saw, a set of bits and a ratchet bit stock, a pair of pliers, hammer, and gas pump. There were no marks on any of the tools. The police were not notified of the theft until today and are making an investigation.

Tipping the Porter.

On a recent trip to California Bert Walker says the Pullman porter acted as though he wanted something from the passengers. "What do you want?" Bert asked him. "Oh, anything you see fit to give, boss," replied the porter. "All right," said Bert. "Boys, let's give the porter three cheers." And they did.

The Last Resort.

Mr. Topfloor—"I just told the janitor to go to hades." Mrs. Topfloor—"Why, George! Aren't you ashamed of yourself?" Mr. Topfloor—"Not at all, my dear. That seems to be the only way in which he can acquire any knowledge of heating."

MOOSE BAND PROVES

GOOD DRAWING CARD

Large Crowds Attracted to the Third Ward Vaudeville Tents by Music of Band.

While the receipts from the two nights of vaudeville held under the auspices of the Third Ward Carnival company, were not large, the number of persons attracted to their show grounds on Jackson street Tuesday and Wednesday night by the appearance of the Bower City and the Moose bands, showed that Janesville people enjoy music and would delight in weekly concerts. A total of something over twenty-five dollars was raised by the carnival and vaudeville to be utilized for the playgrounds, and the promoters, Robert Carle and Maurice Weirick, who had charge of the affair, looking after its financial and managerial problems, proved able managers. The appearance of the Moose band of twenty-one pieces, proved most acceptable and many persons from all parts of the city were present to enjoy the music, though but a small portion of them attended the vaudeville which was most acceptable. The managers and members of the vaudeville company desire to extend their thanks to the merchants and the members of the Bower City and Moose bands for their aid and encouragement.

SECRETARY ANXIOUS

TO OBTAIN REPORTS

Board of Trustees of Teachers' Retirement Fund Would Avoid Further Delay.

Secretary R. C. Ramsey of the board of trustees of the teachers' insurance and retirement fund, residing at Peshigo, Wis., has written to County Superintendent Antisdal asking him to forward the reports in full from Rock county as to the district school teachers who are under the provisions. Both the superintendent and treasurer have been delayed in making their reports to the state officers for the reason that town and district clerks have failed to send in reports, some because they were unfamiliar with the law, and others who erroneously believed that reports must be made where teachers had elected to come under the retirement fund act. Reports have been received from about forty districts to date, but there is still a large number to be heard from. The time has necessarily been extended for the filing of these reports as the same difficulty has been experienced all over the state.

Several district clerks, when told that they are required by law to keep out a certain per cent of the teachers' earnings to be turned over to the retirement fund, declared they would not do it, but would prefer to make a test case rather than obey what they termed an unjust act. It is evident that complications may follow as a result.

There are two reasons why the young men of Janesville enjoy playing tennis, the first being that it's an elegant way to get a nice husky coat of tan, and of course you've guessed the second one. White trousers? Certainly. Where is the young man that doesn't regard himself as being the quintessence of pulchritude in a coat of tan and white flannel trousers. Ans.—We never heard of such.

A reporter and artist from the Daily Gazette set out yesterday afternoon to investigate local tennis conditions. As it happened that purveyor of pictorial persiflage, the artist, considered that he was quite some little rascally swinger himself, having won a near-silver cup in a Y. M. C. A. tournament, once. He explained that he hadn't played much in Janesville as he hadn't been able to find anyone that could make it interesting for him.

It was over in Edgerton that we saw the young lady who inspired the accompanying sketch. You probably know her, it's Miss—on second thought we've decided not to print the young lady's name. It would be over so much nicer to have all the young ladies in that neighborhood think it was intended for them.

Tennis no doubt owes a large part of its popularity to the fact that no matter what your architectural scheme be, it's just the game for you. Perhaps you're fat-er, pardon-me, inclined to be stout. Assuming, then, that you're rather plump, you'll find tennis hot stuff for reducing. For you, friend reader, lots of chasing around is demanded of a tennis player, especially a beginner. Supposing then on the other hand that you're a spare person and rather tall like a drink of water. If that's your style of beauty you'll enjoy it because you'll find that you can stand at the back-lines and return a ball from any corner of the court with neatness and dispatch. Of course if you're neither—woops!—you'll enjoy it anyway because as it says in the song—everybody indulges in it.

Real Politeness.

Little Barbara's mother is careful about her manners and teaches her to answer everybody politely. But Barbara has a faculty of mixing up her polite speeches. The other day she came running into the house with some letters, and cried: "Mamma, I met the postman at the gate and I took the letters, and he said, 'Thank you!'" "And what did you say to him, then?" asked her mother. "Oh, I said, 'Pleasant dreams!'" answered Barbara.

D. C. Bybee, teaming contractor living at 689 Keeling Court, Canton, Ill., is now well rid of a severe and annoying case of kidney trouble. His back pained and he was bothered with headaches and dizzy spells. "I took Foley Kidney Pills just as directed and in a few days I felt much better. My life and strength seemed to come back, my backache left me, I slept well, and I got up free from headache and dizzy spells. I am now all over my trouble and recommend Foley Kidney Pills to everyone. Badger Drug Co."

EMBROIDERED BOW.

This little bow is very pretty when embroidered and made up. The edges are padded and closely buttonholed. The dots may be worked solid, or as eyelets. When the embroidery is finished the smaller bows should be laid on the larger one and a piece of the material drawn tightly around the center. Use mercerized cotton, No. 25, for the embroidery.

At The Theatre

A MERRY ATTRACTION.
In "The Girl, The Man and The Game" which is booked for the Myers Theatre, on Thursday, August 8, will be seen a play packed full of songs and laughter. The plot is pure farce, and interspersed among the many

"I Want a Berth for Bertha," "That Was All Nothing More," "Texas Tommy's Dance," "Beautiful Love," "Rose Marie," "I Want a Girl," "Home Run Bill," "Winnie From Winnipeg," and many others equally tuneful and ludicrous situations are many songs which have the life and go that make them instantly popular. Billy (Single) Clifford, the star of the play, and one who is one of the popular entertainers upon the American stage, is the singer of many of them among which are: "On the First Dark Night Next Week," "Hands Up," The famous Billy song, catchy.

Billy is surrounded by an excellent company headed by Miss Mae Collins, who assumes the role of "The Girl," Jack Trainer, who is "The Cause" of "The Game." A clever prima donna in the person of Miss Marie Welter, Bud Brame, Edward C. Clifford, Lou Marlowe and a host of others includ-

HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES.

If the producing manager knew what the theatre-going public want, there would be fewer failures and poor shows; but as he is invariably the last person who really knows what they want and when by some freak of fortune he does give what they want, it is said, "he has produced a success." When the fact is taken into consideration that in a theatrical year there will be fewer than ten real successes, the word success takes on a new meaning. "The House of a Thousand Candles," the play billed to appear at Myers Theatre on Sunday, Aug. 11, Mat. and evening can truly be called a success, as it was first produced four seasons ago, at the Hockett Theatre, New York, where it ran for a solid year, and has been before the public ever since. Everywhere it has met with success. The play is from Meredith Nicholson's novel by the same name, and done into play form by George Middleton. Mr. Primrose, the producer, has secured a complete scenic equipment and an excellent cast, with Mr. Huluck as Bates, and Miss Fealy as Marian.

THE "PROGRESSIVE" PARTY is the individual, man or woman, who uses Foley Kidney Pills for backache, rheumatism, weak back, and other kidney and bladder irregularities. Robert W. Herter, Lawrenceville, Mo., says: "I took three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and got a permanent cure. They are healing, strengthening, tonic, and quick to produce beneficial results. Contain no harmful drugs. Never sold in bulk. Put up in two sizes in sealed bottles. The genuine in a yellow package. Badger Drug Co."

CLINTON

Clinton, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Curtis Friday, who was taken to the Mayo brothers' hospital at Rochester, Minn., last week, underwent a critical operation there Tuesday. A message received from there yesterday stated she was getting along nicely. Her mother, Mrs. Henry Reimer, went to Rochester, Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McKinney attended the picnic at Edgerton.

The Misses Gillis of Alhambra, Ill., are visiting their aunts, Messdams V. C. Tuttle, James Winegar, and C. W. Colver.

Henry S. Anderson and Andrew Tillotson were circulating the stock subscription papers for the new bank yesterday. They have $28,000 worth of stock subscribed for now and it will be an easy matter to dispose of the remaining $7,000, making the $35,000, which is the amount desired to capitalize. The organization will be consummated as soon as possible that the building may be commenced and completed before cold weather.

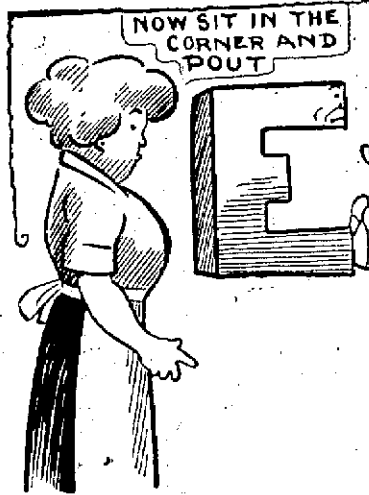

Mrs. Mary Snyder and daughters, Misses Lulu and Ruth, will move to Ft. Atkinson at once, where Mrs. Snyder's eldest daughter, Mrs. Frank Anderson, resides, and where Miss Lulu has secured a fine position as trimmer in a millinery store. The many friends of Mrs. Snyder and daughters regret exceedingly to see them leave Clinton, but their best wishes go with them.

A man who refused to give his name, came into town yesterday morning with a bad scalp wound and his face literally a mass of cut, bruised and bleeding flesh. He claimed the train crew on a C. & N. W. last morning freight train had kicked him about a mile and a half out of town. Dr. W. O. Thomas dressed his wounds.

Miss Beatrice Kizer is confined to her bed with an attack of tonsillitis. Mrs. Amelia Hartshorn is enjoying a visit from her brother, Mr. Klingbell, of Milwaukee.

HERE IS A HELPER FOR YOU

Let the Latest Dictionary be Your Aid and Every Day Assistant at All Times.

Did you ever watch a skilled workman?

The speed and accuracy of his accomplishment seems wonderful. Not a moment is ever lost in finding the right tool; everything seems ready to his hand; he is never hampered by any other thought than that of the execution which makes his handiwork grow rapidly before your admiring eyes.

Did it ever occur to you that nearly half of his thinking is done for him? Look more carefully and, whether it be in the smoke and grime of the mill, in the carpenter or machine shop, foundry or mason's yard, you will almost invariably find the modest effective helper near at hand.

The Gazette's dictionary is just such a helper to those who work in words.

You have watched the boy throwing red-hot rivets to a structural iron worker and marveled at the two minds working in unison and the accuracy with which the bits of heated metal are hurled just as they are needed.

The dictionary is just such a helper, ready to hurl the right word for just the right time up to where your mind is working in creative effort. Those who keep The Gazette Dictionary at their elbows are always sure of having at hand just the right tool their tongue needs.

A millman from a nearby town explained his theory of a helper. He had just received his New Websterian and was inspecting it with delight, when he said:

"You see, I have the best helper I could want when I'm in the mill; but when I get home and try to write anything I'm sure in need of aid. This little black book is going to be my helper and hand me the word I want when I need it most, and I'll bet that whatever I write will be spelled right anyhow."

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

It has been revised and brought up to the present date in accordance with the best authorities from the greatest universities, and is published by a well known Publishing Co. of New York City.

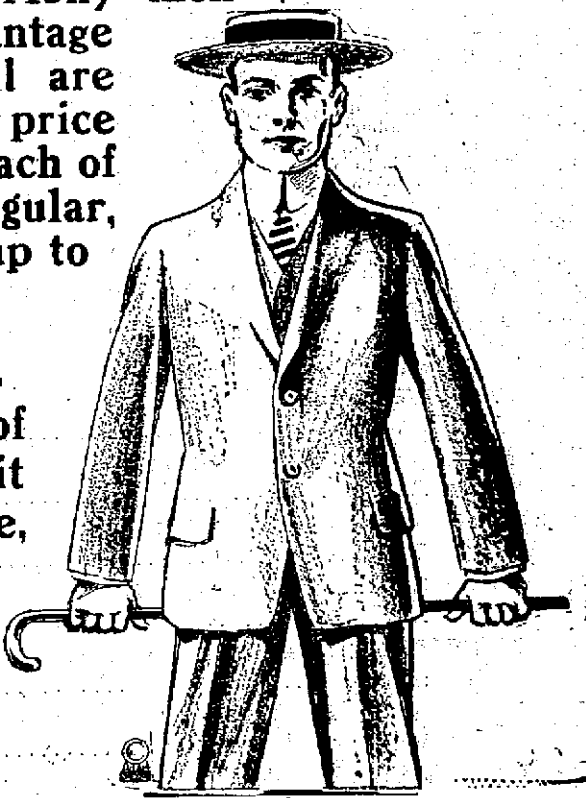

Six consecutive coupons and a small expense bonus get it.

Former Janesville Resident Writes New Jingle For Janesville Friends.

The following "Jabberwocky," written by a former Janesville resident, was received at the Gazette office. It is reprinted, with the name of the writer omitted, including the letter which accompanied it.

August 5, 1912.
Editor Janesville Gazette,
Janesville, Wis.

There seems just now to be a fad for parodies on Lewis Carroll's "Jabberwocky." I have seen recently a Jabberwocky of authors, and another of New York city streets. Thinking that Janesville should be up to date in jabberwockies as it is in most things, I enclose one with my compliments to old friends and acquaintances.

Very truly yours,
A Janesville Jabberwocky.
With apologies to Lewis Carroll.

Beware the jeffrismack, my son!
The jaws that bite, the claws that hurt!
Beware the putnam bird, and shun
The bailey blughaubert.

He took his burpee sword in hand,
Long time the schaller foe he sought
So rosted he by the hough shade tree
And stood awhile in thought.

And as in geeking thought he stood
The jeffrismack with eyes of flame,
Came lapping through the charlestat wood
And rexford as it came.

One two! One two! And through and through,
The burpee blade went suicker smack!
He left it dead and with its head
He went sauechlin back.

And hast thou slain the jeffrismack?
Come to my arms, my dickie boy!
Oh, eddotee! Oh, geonckey!

Delicious and pleasant—how good they do taste,

A dish one can relish and served in such haste;

GIVEN SURPRISE ON EVE OF DEPARTURE

Farewell Party for Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore Who Will Soon Move to South Bend, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore, who have been residents of Janesville for the past four years, were given a farewell surprise party at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Roberts last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will leave soon for South Bend, Indiana, where Mr. Moore has accepted a flattering position with the Oliver Plow Works.

About seventy friends gathered at the United Brethren parsonage for the affair last evening. A handkerchief shower was one of the features of the entertainment and every one spent a most delightful time. The departure of Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be keenly felt by their friends and by the U. B. church of which they were members.

Mr. Moore has been employed as foreman in the plow department of the Janesville Machine Company.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE COMEDIAN.
By Howard L. Rann.

The comedian is a high strung actor who retains jokes which do not have to be accompanied by explanatory foot notes or an outline map.

His business is to extract unpremeditated tee-hees from people who do not care to have their humor draped in thought.

Every comedian has a different system. Some are able to convulse an audience, by merely sitting down heavily on the floor in the neighborhood of the audience.

The comedian's life is full of joy and sunshine. All he has to do is to coin jokes which none of those present have heard for several years and then wait for somebody who has come in on a pass to laugh right out loud.

The saddest day in a comedian's career is when he tries to impute a cold and austere audience on the point of a joke which threw the population of the last town into a fit of apoplexy.

There is nothing more painful in this life than the sight of a kind, well-mannered comedian trying to wring extempore laughter from an audience which recognizes every joke before it turns the corner.

Every once in a while some comedian conceives the unique idea of relying on the mental agility of his audience and gets stung in every positive and unequivocal manner, after which he resorts to falling through a cane-bottomed chair and recovers his standing in the profession.

There are two kinds of comedy—high and low. The higher comedy gets the more it costs and the less it hurts. Some varieties of high comedy can be watched for hours without straining a vest button.

Low comedy goes down to quite a depth and consists mainly of trifle repartee and language which violates the pure food laws. The best low comedians are those who have a double back handsprung in their repertoire.

"During the time of the French revolution Edmund Burke created something of a sensation in the house of commons by taking a huge dagger from his pocket and throwing it on the speaker's table, exclaiming: 'There is French fraternity for you. Such is the poniard which French Jacobins would plunge in the heart of our sovereign.'"

This dramatic exhibition startled the house for a moment, but soon the dagger was greeted with a titter, then a shout of laughter when Sheridan said: "The gentleman has brought his knife with him, but where's the fork?"

Owen Wister, the novelist, was talking in Philadelphia about a poet whose work sold poorly.

"Poets are usually without honor," he said, "Remember Wordsworth's case."

"The great Wordsworth, you know was in the habit of spouting his poetry aloud as he took his lonely walks. Thus he polished and elaborated lines. Thus, too, he got the reputation among the Rydal Lake folks of being a bit duff."

"Well, John, what's the news?" Hartley Coleridge once asked an old stonebreaker by the lake shore.

"Why, not varra partickler," the stonebreaker replied, "only old Wordsworth's broken loose agin'."

When General Moreau was in England he was once the victim of a ridiculous misunderstanding. He was present at a concert where a piece was sung by the choir with the refrain:

"Tomorrow, tomorrow."

Having a very imperfect knowledge of English he fancied it to be a cantata given in his honor, and thought he distinguished the words:

"To Moreau to Moreau."

Each time the refrain was repeated he rose to his feet and gracefully bowed on all sides, to the great astonishment of the audience, who did not know what to make of it.

When James T. Brady first opened a lawyer's office in New York he took a basement room which had been previously occupied by a cobbler. He was somewhat annoyed by the previous occupant's callers, and irritated by the fact that he had few of his own. One day an Irishman entered.

"The cobblers gone, I see," he said.

REPORTS HELL NOT

The proponent of "Who's looney now?" declares he had received a spirit message from a former friend assuring that "hell is not a half bad place" after one goes through the torment prescribed for each one's sins. Satan is described as resembling Napoleon in appearance.

Verger Was Strictly Business.
English vergers no longer turn an honest shilling by admitting spectators to see royalty at church. But a few years ago one in a certain country church thought of something even better. King Edward had been occupying one of the pews, and after seeing his majesty depart the clergyman returned to find a brisk business going on. The vergers had seen a way to assist the church restoration fund by charging loyal parishioners a few pence each for the privilege of sitting for a moment in the place still warmed with the royal presence; and he was astonished when the vicar summarily stopped the traffic.

The Three Guardsmen

... By ...

ALEXANDRE DUMAS

At length Mme. Bonacieux heard the grating of the hinges of the opening gates, the noise of boots and spurs resounded on the stairs; there was a great murmur of voices. All at once she uttered a loud cry of joy.

"D'Artagnan, D'Artagnan!" cried she. "Is it you? This way! This way!"

"Constance, Constance," replied the young man, "where are you? Where are you?"

Several men rushed into the chamber. Mme. Bonacieux had sunk into a chair, without the power of moving.

"Oh, D'Artagnan, my beloved D'Artagnan, thou art come, then, at last! Thou hast not deceived me! It is indeed thee! Oh, it was in vain my companion told me you would not come!"

"Your companion!" cried D'Artagnan, becoming more pale than the white veil of his mistress, "of what companion are you speaking dear Constance?"

"Of her whose carriage was at the gate, of a woman who calls herself your friend, of a woman to whom you have told everything. But my head swims. I cannot see."

"Help, help, my friends! Her hands are icy cold!" cried D'Artagnan. "She will faint! Great God, she is losing her senses!"

Athos, standing before the table, his hair rising from his head, was looking at one of the glasses.

"Oh," said he, "oh, no; it is impossible!"

"Water, water!" cried D'Artagnan. "Water!"

"Oh, poor woman, poor woman!" murmured Athos.

Mme. Bonacieux opened her eyes under the kisses of D'Artagnan.

"She revives!" cried the young man. "Madame," said Athos, "madame, in the name of heaven, who poured out the wine for you?"

"Oh, I remember," said Mme. Bonacieux, "the Countess de Winter."

The four friends uttered one and the same cry, but that of Athos dominated over all the rest.

At that moment the countenance of Mme. Bonacieux became livid, a fearful agony pervaded her frame, and she sank panting into the arms of Porthos and Aramis.

"D'Artagnan! D'Artagnan! Where art thou? Do not quit me. Thou seest that I am dying!" cried she.

Collecting all her strength, she took the head of D'Artagnan between her hands, looked at him for an instant as if her whole soul passed in that look and, with a sobbing cry, pressed her lips to his.

"Constance! Constance!" cried D'Artagnan wildly. But he held nothing but a corpse pressed in his arms.

The young man uttered a cry and fell by the side of his mistress as pale and as senseless as she was.

At that moment a man appeared in the doorway almost as pale as those in the chamber, looked round him and saw Mme. Bonacieux dead and D'Artagnan fainting.

"Gentlemen," said he, "you are, as I am, in search of a woman who," added he, with a terrible smile, "must have passed this way, for I see a corpse. I am the Lord de Winter, brother-in-law of that woman."

Athos arose and, offering him his hand, said:

"You are welcome, milord," said he; "you are one of us."

"I set out five hours after her from Portsmouth," said Lord de Winter. "I arrived three hours after her at Boulogne. I missed her by twenty minutes at St. Omer. At last at Lille I lost all trace of her. I was going about at hazard inquiring of everybody when I saw you gallop past. I recognized M. d'Artagnan. Are both dead?"

"No," replied Athos. "Fortunately M. d'Artagnan has only fainted."

At that moment D'Artagnan opened his eyes. He tore himself from the arms of Porthos and Aramis and threw himself like a madman on the corpse of his mistress.

Athos said to him, with his noble and persuasive voice:

"Friend, be a man! Women weep for the dead; men avenge them!"

Athos took advantage of the moment of strength which the hope of vengeance restored to his unfortunate friend to make a sign to Porthos and Aramis to go and fetch the superior.

"Madame," said Athos, passing his arm under that of D'Artagnan, "we abandon to your pious care the body of that unfortunate woman."

D'Artagnan concealed his face in the bosom of Athos and sobbed aloud. Then all five, followed by their lackeys, leading their horses, took their way to the town of Bethune and stopped before the first inn they came to.

"But," said D'Artagnan, "shall we not pursue that woman?"

"Presently," said Athos. "I have measures to take."

"She will escape us," replied the young man. "She will escape us, and it will be your fault, Athos."

"I will be accountable for her," said Athos. "Now, gentlemen," said he, "let every one retire to his own apartment. I take charge of everything."

"It appears, however," said Lord de Winter, "that if there be any measures to be taken against the countess it particularly concerns me. She is my sister-in-law."

"And," said Athos, "she is my wife!"

D'Artagnan smiled, for he was satisfied Athos was sure of his vengeance when he revealed such a secret as that. Porthos and Aramis looked at each other and changed color. Lord de Winter thought Athos was mad.

CHAPTER XLV.

The Man With the Red Cloak.

THE despair of Athos had given place to a concentrated grief, which only rendered more lucid the brilliant mental faculties of that extraordinary man. He procured a map of the province, perceived that there were four different roads from Bethune to Armentieres and called Planchet, Grimaud, Bazin and Mousqueton, who received clear, positive and serious orders.

They were to set out for Armentieres the next morning at daybreak and to go to Armentieres, each by a different route.

All four were to meet the next day at 11 o'clock. If they had discovered Milady's retreat three were to remain on guard; the fourth was to return to Bethune to inform Athos and serve as a guide to the four friends.

Athos then arose from his chair, girded on his sword, enveloped himself in his cloak and left the hotel. It was nearly 10 o'clock. He made his way to a small house, isolated, solitary, dark and dismal, on the outskirts of the town. Three times Athos knocked without receiving any answer. At the third knock, however, steps were heard inside. The door at length was opened and a man of high stature, pale complexion and black hair and beard appeared.

The man whom Athos had come so far to seek introduced him into his laboratory, where he was engaged in fastening together with iron wire the dry bones of a skeleton. All the frame was adjusted, except the head, which lay upon the table.

All the rest of the furniture indicated that the inhabitant of this house was engaged in the study of the natural sciences. But there was no family, no servant. The tall man inhabited this house alone.

Athos explained to him the cause of his visit and the service he required of him, but scarcely had he expressed his request than the unknown, who remained standing before the musketeer, drew back with signs of terror and refused. Then Athos took from his pocket a small paper, upon which were written two lines, accompanied by a signature and a seal, and presented them to him who had given too prematurely these signs of repugnance. The tall man had scarcely read these lines, seen the signature and recognized the seal when he bowed to denote that he had no longer any objection to make and that he was ready to obey.

Athos returned to the hotel and went to his apartment.

At daybreak D'Artagnan came to him and asked him, "What was to be done?"

"Wait!" replied Athos. Shortly afterward Planchet returned. He had traced Milady to Armentieres. She had engaged a chamber in the inn there, had sent for the master of the hotel and told him that she was desirous to remain for some time in that neighborhood. Planchet did not want to know any more. He hastened to the rendezvous, found the lackeys at their posts, placed them as sentinels at all the issues of the hotel and came to find Athos.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Athos ordered the horses to be saddled and had Lord de Winter and his friends informed that they must prepare for the expedition.

In an instant all five were ready. Every one examined his arms and put them in order.

"Patience!" cried Athos. "One of our party is still wanting!"

The four horsemen looked round them with astonishment. At this moment Planchet brought out Athos's horse, and the musketeer leaped lightly into the saddle.

"Wait for me," cried he. "I will soon be back."

In a quarter of an hour he returned, accompanied by a tall man, masked and enveloped in a large red cloak. At 9 o'clock, guided by Planchet, the little cavalcade set out, taking the route Milady's carriage had taken.

It was a stormy and dark night. Xant-Clouds covered the heavens, concealing the stars. The moon would not rise much before midnight.

At every instant Athos was forced to restrain D'Artagnan, who had but one thought, which was to go forward.

Several times Lord de Winter, Porthos or Aramis endeavored to enter into conversation with the man in the red cloak, but to every interrogation put to him he bowed without making any reply.

A little before they came to Fromelles the storm burst in all its fury upon them, and they unfolded their cloaks. They had still three leagues to travel, and they performed it amid torrents of rain.

At the moment the little troop had passed Goskal a man advanced into the middle of the road with his finger on his lips. Athos recognized Grimaud.

"What's the matter?" cried Athos. "Has she left Armentieres?"

Grimaud made a sign in the affirmative. D'Artagnan ground his teeth.

"Where is she?" asked Athos. Grimaud stretched out his hands in the direction of the Lys.

"Alone?" asked Athos. Grimaud made a sign that she was alone in the direction of the river.

"That's well," said D'Artagnan. "Lead us on, Grimaud."

Another flash enlightened all around them. Grimaud extended his arm, and they distinguished a little isolated house on the banks of the river within a hundred paces of a ferry.

"This is the place," said Athos. At this moment a man who had been crouching in a ditch jumped up and came toward them. It was Mousqueton. He pointed with his finger to a window with a light.

"She is there," said he. "And Bazin?" asked Athos. "While I kept my eye on the window he guarded the door."

"All is well!" said Athos. Athos sprang from his horse, gave the bridle to Grimaud and advanced toward the window, after having made a sign to the rest of the troop to go toward the door.

By the light of a lamp Athos saw a woman enveloped in a mantle of a dark color seated upon a joint stool near the dying embers of a fire. Her elbows were placed upon a mantel piece, and she leaned her head upon her two hands, which were white as ivory.

At this moment one of the horses neighed. Milady raised her head, saw the pale face of Athos close to the window and screamed with terror. Athos, perceiving that she knew him, pushed the window with his knee and hand. It yielded; the frame and glass were broken to pieces. And Athos, like the specter of vengeance, sprang into the room.

Milady rushed to the door and opened it; but, still more pale and menacing than Athos, D'Artagnan stood on the sill.

Milady drew back, uttering a cry. D'Artagnan, believing she might have means of flight and fearing she should escape, drew a pistol from his belt, but Athos raised his hand.

"Put back that weapon, D'Artagnan," said he. "This woman must be judged, not assassinated. Come in, gentlemen."

Behind D'Artagnan entered Porthos, Aramis, Lord de Winter and the man in the red cloak. The four lackeys guarded the door and the window.

"What do you want?" screamed Milady.

"We want," said Athos, "Charlotte Backson, who first was called Countess de la Fere and afterward Lady de Winter, Baroness de Sheffield."

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 8, 1872.—Let Loyalty Rejoice: North Carolina is ours. Celebration of the great event Saturday night. After waiting patiently for reliable returns from the North Carolina election and listening quietly to the premature exultations of our democratic brethren over a supposed victory, we are now permitted to witness a complete turning of the tables on the opposite party. North Carolina is surely ours, and in view of the great victory it becometh us to celebrate in a fitting manner the achievements of the republican party in the turpentine state. At a meeting of the Grant and Wilson club on Tuesday evening it was decided to "demonstrate" on Saturday night. The program has not been definitely arranged. General Isaac Sherwood, secretary of State of Ohio, will speak at Lappin's hall.

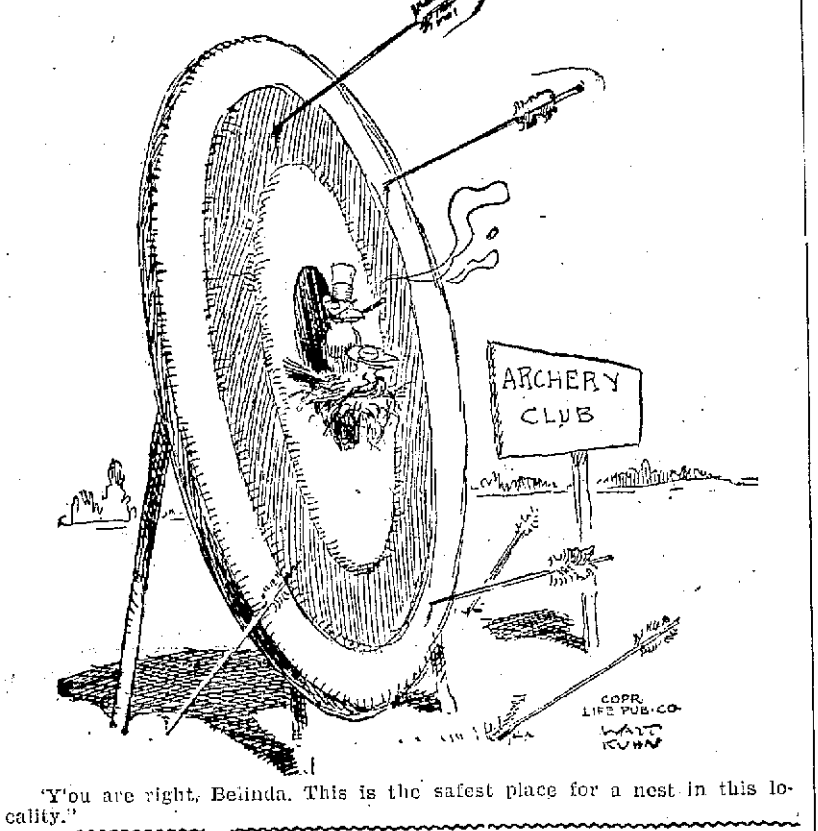

A Profitable Affair: The Presbyterian church fund, by last night's outdoor festival, to proportions, which, if it will not enable them to build a $40,000 church, will at least keep them in spending money for some time to come. A large attendance was on the grounds and almost everyone bought ice cream. The music was grand and it didn't cost a cent to walk around among the trees and look at the lanterns. They will probably repeat the entertainment.

State Firemen's Association: R. P. Young of this city, president of the State Firemen's Association, addressed a communication to the Oshkosh Northwestern, on the 5th inst., stating that there will be a meeting of the officers of the State Firemen's Association in Oshkosh, on Monday, the 19th inst., to fix upon some place to hold a grand State Firemen's Review and trial of engines.

Old Pinchum's spacious collar groans beneath its stack of shining bones, which were his only goal; and foolish people envy him and wish that they could pull his limb and get next to his roll. Old Pinchum now is pretty old, and as he views his pile of gold, perhaps it seems like trash; perhaps, to dodge the stinging raps that conscience gives up all his cash. Perhaps, when looking down the years, and thinking of the groans and tears his avarice has caused, he looks with horror on the past, and wrings his miser hands at last, and wishes he had paused. Old Pinchum hasn't long to live, and peradventure he would give his wealth

"You are right, Belinda. This is the safest place for a nest in this locality."

AUGUST 8

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
Accidents or worries will accompany any journey or change which you will make and your patience will be severely tried. Quarrels will turn out badly for you and only by reason and moderation can you succeed. Those born today will have fiery dispositions and will not be a joy to themselves or their friends unless they learn self control. This is their only pathway to success.

A Demonstration.
"Do you know of any case where anything can be better than the best?"
"Certainly. The bridegroom at a wedding."

SO SEW.
I said to the tailor: "Hello! How's business, old fellow? Quite slow, or does it just go so-so?"
"You might call it so-so," he answered, "but sew!"

Lacking in Detail.
"So, there's another rupture of Mount Vesuvius," said Mrs. Partington, as she put on her specs. "The paper tells us about the burning lath-runs running down the mountain, but it don't tell how it got a-hair!"—rid.

The Name for It.
"What is the underword?"
"The people you see underneath their balking automobiles."

its Proof.
"Are you so superstitious as to believe that there is bad luck in thirteen?"
"Can't help believing it. The thirteenth girl I asked to marry me did it."

Too Often the Case.
She had a face that made me glad, I thought her a most winsome thing. Until I found out that she had a firm belief that she could sing.

INCOMPLETE RETURNS

First Lawyer—How often was Mr. Millions married?
Second Lawyer—Can't tell you. The notices of contests over the estates have only just begun to come in.

A Modern Improvement.
"There is one great advantage about the motor-car," said Ethel. "It doesn't mistake the sound of a kiss for a chirrup to go faster, and compel the young man to grab the reins with both hands."

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester, N. Y., says: Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. "For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain, and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use." Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. Badger Drug Co.
